NOTES IN SEASON.

VAN ANTWERP, BRAGG & Co. have just ready "Eclectic Physical Geography," containing 30 charts and 151 cuts and diagrams.

DODD, MEAD & Co. will publish, the first week in September, "Miss Lou," by the late E. P. Roe. It will be issued in cloth, uniform with this author's other works.

F. Y. CROWELL & Co. have just ready their new illustrated edition of Hugo's "Nôtre-Dame," translated by Miss Isabel F. Hapgood, printed and bound in uniform style with their edition of "Les Misérables" published last season.

G. S. FELLOWS & Co., 25 Bond St., New York, have just ready a volume entitled "Protection Echoes from the Capitol," by T. H. McKee, assistant librarian U. S. Senate. The volume will contain the salient points of the recent tariff debate, also the present tariff and Mills bill in parallel columns.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish immediately an édition de luxe of "The President's Message," printed in large type, small quarto, with sixteen full-page moral and graphic illustrations from original designs by Thomas Nast; also the Ques- tions of the Day edition of the same, with annotations by R. R. Bowker, which has been delayed for some important additional material.

CUPPLES, UPHAM & Co. will publish shortly a new book by W. H. H. (Adirondack) Murray. It will be especially adapted for the holiday trade, and will be descriptive of the Northwestern side of the American continent, a region of country little known to the average reader. The illustrations will be from sketches by Mr. J. D. Woodward, which have been carefully supervised by Mr. J. B. Millet.

FUNK & WAGNALLS have just issued in pamphlet form "The Presidential Campaign of 1896—a scrap-book of chronicle," by the author of "The Battle of Bietigheim." The scene is laid in America, where the forces of modern civilization and the communistic, anarchical, and socialistic elements of modern evolutions and revolutions meet in deadly combat. The occasion is the Presidential campaign of 1896, when the combined forces of Socialism, Anarchy, and Atheism meet their Waterloo at the hands of an aroused, living, active American Patriotism. It has in it the earnest fire of a prophecy.

D. APPLETON & Co. publish this week "A History of the United States and its People," by Edward Eggleston. This may be fairly regarded as the most important event in the recent history of educational literature. The author has been directly engaged for years in the collection of material and the work on this volume, which, although primarily intended for schools, is calculated to delight young readers out of school, and readers of all ages everywhere. It is charmingly written, and illustrated abundantly in a novel and most effective manner. They have, also, just ready in the International Scientific Series "The Origin of Floral Structures through insect and other agencies," by the Rev. George Henslow, Professor of Botany, Queen's College; and "Seven Conventions," by A. W. Classon, which refers to the Federal Convention, five of the ratifying Conventions, and the Charleston Convention of 1860, and is designed as an aid to the study of the Constitution.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

GENERAL GRANT is said to have left in manuscript a large number of humorous anecdotes drawn from his experiences in the army. These are soon to be published, probably by C. L. Webster & Co.

WM. HENRY HURLBERT has just published in Edinburgh a book entitled "Ireland Under Coercion—the diary of an American," which is reviewed by the London Times to the extent of five columns. Mr. Hurlbert concludes that landlords are good and alone deserving of sympathy, and that the Nationalist peasants are vicious, dishonest, and, as a rule, much too leniently treated.

SIR MORELL MACKENZIE is at work on his reply to the recently published attack upon him by the German physicians. His answer will be shortly published in book-form simultaneously in England and Germany. Messrs. Sampson Low, Marston & Co. will be the English publishers. A considerable portion of it will be in the nature of personal anecdote by Sir Morell Mackenzie respecting his illustrious patient the late Emperor Frederick.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.*

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. 4to: under 30 cm.; O. (8vo: 25 cm.); D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tl. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights

Abbott, Austin. New cases selected chiefly from decisions of the courts of New York. V. 20. N. Y., Diossy & Co., 1888. c. 52+540 p. O. shp., $5.

Alden, Mrs. Is. M., ["Pansy," pseud.] Judge Burnham's daughters. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1888.] c. 5+339 p. 1 il. D. cl., $1.50.

Those who read "Ruth Erskine's crosses" will be glad to meet its principal character once more in her new character of wife and mother. Judge Burnham, Ruth's husband, was a man of wealth and high social position. He was strongly opposed to Ruth's being actively connected with religious or temperance movements, and this fact sometimes brought them dangerously near serious misunderstanding. Another source of trouble were Ruth's step-daughters, gay young things, who rebelled against her authority. Her married life hence was not a happy one—but a long siege of sorrow softens all parties and brings about a better condition of things.

Bancroft, Hubert Howe. History of the Pacific States of North America, v. 30. California inter pocula: a review of some classical abnormalities. San Francisco, The History Co., 1888. c. 6+828 p. O. cl., $4.50; leath., $5.50; hf. cf., hf. rus., or hf. mor., $8; rus., mor., or tree cf., $10.

"Much has been written of the California Inferno of 1848 and the years immediately following, much that is neither fact nor fable. Great and gaudy pictures have been painted, but few of them bear much resemblance to nature. . . . No attempt is made in these pages to outdo my predecessors in morbid intensifications of the certain phases of society and character engendered of the times. They contain simple sketches and plain descriptions, historical rather than fantastical, with no effort toward effect."—Preface. A full index is added to the volume.

Besant, Walter. Fifty years ago. N. Y., Harper, 1888. 12+268 p. il. O. cl., $2.50.

With numerous portraits and illustrations from familiar sources, and a gossipy, clever text, Mr. Besant pictures the life, manners, and society of London as it was when Queen Victoria ascended the throne. The material, compiled from many sources, but put into a popular, attractive form, is grouped under the following headings: Great Britain, Ireland, and the Colonies; The year 1837; London in 1837; In the street; With the people; With the middle class; In society; At the play and the show; In the house; At school and university; The tavern; In club- and card-land; With the wits; Journals and journalists; The sportsman; In factory and mine; With the men of science; Law and justice.

Billings, J. D. Hard tack and coffee; or, the unwritten story of army life; il. by C. W. Reed. Chic., People's Pub. Co., Lakeside Building, 1888. c. 400 p. O. cl., subs., $2.75.

Clarke, W. Harrison. Civil service law. N. Y., L. K. Strouse, 1888. c. 16+200 p. D. cl., $1.

The civil service law was passed January 16, 1883. The chief object of the book is to defend the principles of the law. It is not a criticism of the law, nor does it treat to any great extent of civil service economy, except in so far as the subject is expounded incidentally by many American statesmen, whose works are freely quoted and give value to the book. The book is dedicated to the National Civil Service Reform League.

Crane, Rev. Stephen. Jesus the Christ. Bost., Universalist Pub. House, 1888. c. 96 p. S. (Manuals of faith and duty, no. 2.) cl., net, 25 c.

These little volumes of expositions of prominent doctrines of the Universalist church offer but little space for argument. The author merely asserts his beliefs, and does not stop to argue those of others from whom he differs. He endeavors to unfold the doctrine of Christ as it appears in his life and teachings, and tries to go at once to the heart of the matter and grasp the real significance of "The Son of God" and "The Son of Man," and ascertain what he really was in his relation to both God and man. What Christ was in the world, in the life of humanity, is to him the thing of transcendent importance, and not what he was before he Gosse, Edmund. Life of William Congreve. N. Y., T. Whittaker, 1888. 4+192+9 p. D. (Great writers ser.) cl., 40 c.

"This is the first time that any attempt has been made to write a detailed biography of Congreve. . . . The story of this book is compiled from materials scattered over a great many volumes, not all of which are to be found in any single library. Among the most obvious sources of information I may mention Cibber, Giles Jacob, Malone's Dryden, Spence's Anecdotes, Swift's correspondence, George-Monck Berkeley's curious and valuable volume, Luttrell's Diary, and the newspapers of the day."—Author's prefatory note. The bibliography by J. P. Anderson, covering nine pages, is a valuable feature.

Holder, C. F. A strange company; wonderwings, mullingongs, colossi, etc.; il. by J.

Carter Beard. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., [1888.] c. 324 p. D. cl., $1.25.

No American naturalist of late years has written more comprehensively or entertainingly than Dr. Holder. In the present volume, prepared for young readers, he describes some of the more remarkable specimens of animal life and their peculiarities. Many of the facts he cites will be new to older readers. In a chapter devoted to the speech of animals, we are told how some of the noises made by insects are produced, undoubtedly for purposes of communication, and how birds, fishes, and animals convey intelligence one to another. In another chapter the sports and games of animals are dealt with. Other chapters are upon "Wonderful flyers," "Homes underground," "How animals protect themselves," "Giants," and "Feathered giants."

Hopkins, Selden R. A young prince of commerce: a penniless boy's fortune. Bost., D. Lothrop Co., 1888. c. 252 p. 1 il. D. cl., $1.25.

Besides a pleasant story which all boys will enjoy, Mr. Hopkins offers a fund of information on business matters, cleverly sandwiched in between the incidents, which gives a clear understanding of the principles of trade. When the boy closes the book he knows the character of mortgages, notes, drafts, stocks, and bonds; the theory of banking, discount, exchange, and collateral; he learns all about the mysteries of Wall Street and how the brokerage business is conducted; in fine, he gets an excellent understanding of the way business is carried on in general.

Illinois. Appellate courts. Reports of cases. V. 23, June-Nov., 1887; rep. by Edwin Burr-ritt Smith. Chic., Callaghan & Co., 1888. c. 2+9-699 p. O. shp., $3.50.

Illinois. Supreme court. Reports of cases; N. L. Freeman, rep. V. 121, May, 1886-Sept., 1887. Springfield, [N. L. Freeman,] 1888. c. 769 p. O. shp., $2.25.

Jones, Leonard A. A treatise on the law of liens, common law, statutory, equitable, and maritime. Bost. and N. Y., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1888. c. 2 v., 15+727 p.; 6+725 p. O. shp., $13.

Kansas. Supreme court. Reports of cases; A. M. F. Randolph, rep. V. 38, cont. cases decided, July term, 1887, and Jan. term, 1888. Topeka, C. C. Baker, St. Pr., 1888. c. 10+576 p. O. shp., $3.50.

King, C. A war-time wooing: a story. N. Y., Harper, 1888. c. 4+195 p. il. D. cl., $1.

Based upon an incident common enough during the late war. A young girl, a member of a "Soldiers' Aid Society," places her name and address in a "Havelock" she has just made and is sending out for the soldiers' use. The result is a correspondence and an exchange of photographs, the young girl's heart becoming warmly interested in her unknown correspondent. The story is redeemed from the commonplace through the fact that a young officer's name and picture have been used in the affair by a jealous rival to weaken his influence with a woman they both love. The young girl, Bessie Warren, who has been made the victim of this plot, is almost broken-hearted when it is revealed to her. The story ends well, however, and the villain is unmasked and punished. Zogbaum illustrates the story with a number of full-page pictures of unusual merit.

La Motte Fouqué, F. H. K. (Freiherr) de. Undine: a romance; (also,) Sintram and his companions; il. by Heywood Sumner. N. Y., G. P. Putnam's Sons, [1888.] 5+384 p. T. (Knickerbocker nuggets.) cl., $1.

Lindley, Sir Nathaniel. A treatise on the law of partnership. From the 5th Eng. ed., with Am. notes by C. Y. Audenried. Phil., The Blackstone Pub. Co., 1888. c. V. 1, 371 p. O. (Text-book ser., v. 2, no. 20.) pap., sub., $1.25.

Macaulay, T. B., (Lord.) Lays of ancient Rome; ed. with notes by W: J. Rolfe and J: C. Rolfe. N. Y., Harper, 1888. c. ed. 3-199 p. il. sq. S. (English classics.) cl., 56 c.; pap., 40 c.

As presented, with Mr. Rolfe's copious notes, these well-known lays are especially adapted for that parallel reading in English which should, in the editor's opinion, accompany the study of Latin in our high schools and academies. There is an introduction, embracing the author's preface and critical comments on the lays.

Macdonald, G: The elect lady. N. Y., Appleton, 1888. 4+345 p. 1 il. D. (Appleton's town and country lib., no. 11.) pap., 50 c.

A simple story of simple Scotch people, with a strong religious element pervading it. Two brothers, Andrew and Sandy, and a young girl, "Dawtie," by their simple faith and pure lives have a great influence on all they come in contact with. "Dawtie" is a servant in the laird's house, and discovers that he has in his possession a most valuable chalice, the work of Benvenuto Cellini, which she is clever enough to find out he has obtained from a party who knew it was stolen from a famous collection. "Dawtie" works on the laird's conscience to return the cup to the original owner, and suffers for her zeal. The laird's daughter "Alexa" is "the elect lady." Her overweening self-esteem is well illustrated by her experience.

Manier, W. H. Law of eminent domain, and of railroads and warehouses, comprising the constitutional and statutory provisions of Illinois, together with the decisions relating thereto. Springfield, D. W. Lusk, 1888. c. 6+467 p. O. shp., $4.

Montague, C: Howard. The face of Rosenfel: a novel. N. Y., A. L. Burt, [1888.] c. 3-248 p. D. (The Manhattan ser., v. 1, no. 6.) pap., 25 c.

By the author of "Two strokes of the bell." An attempt to obtain a large fortune by the abduction of the real heiress and the substitution of an impostor is the central feature of the novel. Some interesting medical theories are aired about mental troubles and what the author calls "visualization," a good deal of sensational incident introduced, and the usual amount of love and love-making.

Illustrates the adage that "listeners never hear any good of themselves." Among other things that Ned Browne inherits from an eccentric uncle is a blue jar full of a black paste which turns out to be fern-seed. Directions accompany it saying if one eats a portion of it he becomes invisible. The antidote to the dose is a lump of sugar. Ned Browne experiments with the fern-seed, and assists invisibly at a consultation of his doctors, visits his club and his sweetheart in the same way, and hears some unwelcome truths.

Princess Daphne (The): a novel. Chic. and N. Y., Belford, Clarke & Co., 1888. c. 5-260 p. il. D. $1; pap., 50 c.

Mesmerism plays a large part in this novel. The characters are taken mostly from "Bohemia," and are not notable for their high moral qualities. The "Princess Daphne" is a Creole and an artist of some reputation, her story being mostly evolved in London. She has a lover, Eric Trevanion, who is an important factor in her life. Paul du Peyral, who obtains a fortune through her refusal to marry him, experiments with mesmerism through a woman he loves upon the "Princess," and thus obtains her secrets. The reader is asked to believe that he is her "double," and that his soul enters her body on his death, working a complete mental transformation in her.

Continues the narratives the author begun in "The story of Chaldea" and "The story of Assyria." Almost half the book is devoted to the ancient religion of the Parsees and an account of the sacred books of that sect. The narrative portion of the book begins with "The last days of Judah," followed by a series of chapters on Media and the rise of Persia, and the Persian war. Bibliography.

A simple love story with an unsophisticated little heroine; by the author of "Mr. Smith" and "The baby's grandmother." The scene is first laid in the Highlands of Scotland and afterwards in London. Geraldine Campbell, the heiress of Inchmaren, though introduced as "a mere child," is not too young to fall in love with handsome Captain Bellenden, who meets her out fishing. The subsequent events which settle their fate are conventional enough, but told in a fresh, entertaining manner which makes the book very attractive.

All paper must also be well sized and without free acid.

A paper whose qualities do not all fall in the same vertical column of the above table is estimated according to the lowest class in which any one of its qualities fails. It is desirable, but not imperative, that a paper should show the degree of resistance to crumbling shown under each class.

The uses to which papers of the various classes are adapted are shown in table C.

C. APPLICATION OF PAPERS.

	Toughness Class.	Materials. Class.
1. Documents of special importance which are required to last a long time	I	I
2. Documents, Civil Registers, Account Books, etc.: a. First class....	2	I
b. Second class..	3	II
3. Papers intended for permanent preservation:
a. Report, Letter-Paper, etc.	3	II
b. Draught Paper	4	II
4. Paper for ordinary use, to be preserved only a few years:
a. Report and Letter-Paper....	3	III
b. Draught Paper.....	4	III
5. Envelopes, Packing Paper, etc.:
a. First-class.....	3	II
b. Second-class	5	III
6. Summonses, Memoranda, and similar Formulas which are only required for temporary use.....	any	IV

From the above tables it appears that the principal tests of paper will be: as regards material, its freedom from wood, its percentage of ash, the presence of grass, straw, etc.; as regards manufacture, its toughness (including thickness, stretching quality, resistance to ill-treatment), its sizing and its surface. I go on to describe these methods in detail.

For the detection of woody fibre the usual reagents are:

- a) Phloroglucine, dissolved in Alcohol with some drops of Hydrochloric acid, which colors woody fibre red, leaving cellulose uncolored.
- b) Aniline sulphate, which colors wood yellow.

Both reagents are simple in application and effective in their results.

JEWISH PUBLICATION SOCIETY.

WE learn from the Philadelphia Press that the Executive Committee of the American Jewish Publication Society met on the 19th inst. toward accomplishing a thorough organization at the Mercantile Club. Fifteen votes were cast for membership on the Publication Committee, some voting by mail. Those elected were: Mayer Sulzberger, Rev. Dr. M. Jastrow, Sr., Simon A. Stern, Rev. Dr. B. Felsenthal, of Chicago; Miss Henrietta Syold, of Baltimore; Dr. Cyrus Adler, of Johns Hopkins University; Dr. A. S. Isaac, of New York, and Professor Charles Gross, of Harvard College. Herman S. Friedman, of this city, was chosen Treasurer, and Mr. Jacob Schiff, of New York; Mr. Leon N. Levi, of Galveston, Tex.; Mr. B. Bettman, of Cincinnati; Rev. Dr. G. Gottheil, of New York, Vice-Presidents. Letters from Mr. J. Hecht, of Boston, and Mr. Rosen-thal, of Chicago, declining to serve on the Executive Committee were received, and Herman S. Friedman was chosen to fill one vacancy, while the other will remain vacant until the next meeting.

The Publication Committee was empowered to draft rules for its government, and to report to the Executive Committee at the next meeting. These were appointed a Committee on Finance: Rev. Dr. Joseph Krauskopf, Morris Newberger, and Herman S. Friedman. A circular embodying the objects and history of the society will be issued by a committee having the matter in charge. Simon Wolf, of Washington, was intrusted with the formation of a general membership committee.

It is quite likely that work will soon be begun toward publishing some famous work in English which is now printed only in German and Hebrew

A LITERARY TRADE UNION.

From the N. Y. Sun.

A DISCUSSION of peculiar interest is maintained in "The Grievances of Authors and Publishers," a work recently imported. It is a report of the proceedings of the British Incorporated Society of Authors, and is made up chiefly of the remarks of the chairmen, followed by three more elaborate addresses, the first by Walter Besant, the second by Edmund Gosse, and the third by John Hollingshead. It contains also letters and papers by several other gentlemen, including one by George Haven Putnam, of this city.

The book reads not unlike a sublimated report of the Grievance Committee of a trade union. The society is in fact a literary protective association. Its membership includes a large number of names eminent in contemporary English literature. It is modelled somewhat on the idea of the Société des Gens de Lettres in France.

The address of Walter Besant was on "The Maintenance of Literary Property," and if all it charges is true the English publishers must be a pretty bad lot. Mr. Besant considers each of the four methods of publishing—where the publisher buys the book outright, where it is published on shares, where a royalty is given, and where it is published on commission. Under the first arrangement Mr. Besant thinks that an author will never be justly compensated for his work unless he holds ground of such peculiar advantage that he can refuse to part with the copyright on any terms a publisher would offer.

Under the method of an equal distribution of profits, Mr. Besant charges a great deal of open rascality on the part of the British publishers. In plain English, they falsify accounts and estimate higher than the actual expenditure will justify; and then they plead that it is not the practice of the trade to permit any auditing of accounts. This is a grave charge, but Mr. Putnam, who may be supposed to represent the publishers' side of the dispute, makes some suggestions which indicate that Mr. Besant may have been mistaken in his data. Mr. Besant obtained estimates on work from one printer for the purpose of learning what should be the charge for similar work done by another printer, and though this seems fair, it may easily be made misleading. The work may not have been of precisely the same quality in both instances, and a little difference in the quality might make a very large difference in the cost. But if the figures of Mr. Besant are trustworthy, he makes a bad case against the publishers, and what is true in the half profit system he asserts to be equally true when a royalty is paid. Misrepresentation and fraud are to be found everywhere. Finally, if a publisher undertakes the publication of a book on commission, he cannot be expected to push the sale against the sale of books which he has undertaken on more advantageous terms. The English author, therefore, fares badly in any case in the view of Mr. Besant, and in the absence of international copyright with this country he is doubly in need of a protective organization to help him out.

But Mr. Besant has golden hopes for the future. He looks forward to the day, possibly during the lives of his children, but certainly during the lives of his grandchildren, when the earth will be half filled with English-speaking people, 50,000,000 in Great Britain, 200,000,000 in America, 100,000,000 in Australia, and 50,000,000 in New Zealand, all bound together under one copyright regulation. At the time when his vision is fulfilled he expects the authors to have all become their own coöperative publishers, and the nucleus of the great publishing house of the future will be found in this Incorporated Society of Authors. He seems to suspect that the headquarters will be finally in Chicago.

Following the address of Mr. Besant comes that of Edmund Gosse on the "Profession of Authorship." This deals rather with the mutual benefit character of the society than with its protective features. Mr. Gosse in the first place takes issue with the prevailing notion that there has been a great improvement in the circumstances of authors since the traditional days of Grub Street. He attributes the apparent improvement to the openings offered in journalism, and even goes so far as to deny, notwithstanding the title of his address, that there can be a strictly literary profession. He seems to believe that an author who tries to be exclusively an author at the present day will fare no better than the author of 100 years ago. In some respects he thinks that the living author will not fare even so well as his predecessor, for what he has gained in the broader public to which his works are addressed he has lost in the loss of the literary patron, a personage once powerful in the aid of struggling genius, but now entirely dethroned and banished. He believes, therefore, that authorship considered as a dependence, is just as precarious a pursuit as ever, and that authors stand in special need of coöperative organization and methods. But Mr. Gosse admits that it will be very difficult to draw the line between authors who are helpable and those who are not helpable. Of the latter class he gives an example in Samuel Boyse, a poet of the last century, who wrote a poem on Deity, and who, during a great part of his life, seemed to have been followed by a procession of dukes and countesses whose entire time was devoted to the task of helping him out of the gutter. He is described as a person who passed six weeks in bed because he had pawned everything that he possessed, and finally, when a subscription was undertaken for his benefit, he used the first money received for a dinner of truffles, off which he dined by thrusting his arm through the blanket. So afterward, on the encouragement offered by a commission to translate one of Fenelon's works, he married and took upon himself the responsibility of maintaining a family. Men of this kind are not helpable in the opinion of Mr. Gosse.

Mr. Gosse does not believe that all successful authors are either impracticable or incapable. He seems to hold that authorship, if not now to be justly considered a profession, might be made a profession by coöperation among authors, and the adoption of methods that would give to men of talent the opportunities they merit. His indignation is roused not so much by the wicked publishers as by the wicked public with its impotent judgment.

The address of John Hollingshead on "Dramatic Rights and Property" is an attack on the English law of copyright. No English novelist at the time when the address was delivered held any dramatic right in his works, and Mr. Hollingshead tells of having once written a story in such form that it was ready for stage representation without any changes. But even in this form he had no right to control its representation. Mr. Hollingshead contends that authors are greatly damaged by stage adaptations of their works.

MEETING OF THE NATIONAL TYPO- THETÆ.

ARRANGEMENTS have been completed by the New York Typothetæ for the entertainment of the United Typothetæ of America, who meet at the Masonic Temple in New York City on Sept. 18. There will be a dinner at the Metropolitan Opera House, with provision for 350 guests. An excursion to Glen Island, including a clam-bake, and another up and down the Hudson, ending with an evening at Manhattan Beach and a view of the fireworks spectacle. Visits will be made to several printing offices and manufacturing establishments.

Among the subjects to be discussed are the cost of production, the true method of bookkeeping, a technical school for printing, the fraudulent importation of stereotype plates at less cost than proper rate of duty, the payment of fees by inkmakers and pressmakers to gain trade, the Chace copyright bill, and the cultivation of kindly relations with workmen.

The officers of the society are: Theodore L. De Vinne, of New York, President; Sam Slawson, of St. Louis, Corresponding Secretary; James Davidson, of Louisville, Recording Secretary; A. O. Russell, of Cincinnati, Treasurer; and Howard Lockwood, of New York, Chairman of the Executive Committee. The local Committee of Arrangements consists of Joseph J. Little, Chairman; W. C. Martin, Douglas Taylor, Theodore L. De Vinne, J. Bishop Putnam, W. E. Hallenbeck, J. Thorne Harper, J. C. Rankin, Jr., A. B. Turnure, Francis E. Fitch, Martin B. Brown, Edward D. Appleton, Frank D. Harmon, Homer Lee, James W. Pratt, W. C. Rogers, John Polhemus, James A. Rogers, R. Harmer Smith, Edward Taylor, and Henry Bessey.

OBITUARY NOTES.

THE death is announced at London, on the 20th inst., of George Weber, the German historian, aged eighty.

BOOK AUCTION BY MAIL.

C. N. CASPAR, of Milwaukee, publishes the first instalment of Part I. of his "Mail Book Auction."

Two copies of this list, which contains only the titles of books actually in stock, are sent to librarians and private book collectors. One of these lists may be used to affix, after the respective titles of the works desired, the price the bidder is willing to pay per volume for each work. The second copy of the list, marked with the same bids, should be kept for reference.

The advantages of this strictly new arrangement are conspicuous, and, above all, labor-saving. Old books in most cases have no market value, and are, as a rule, worth different prices to different persons. Librarians and others may, through this opportunity, obtain books at their own prices.

The books will be shipped to the first bidder, if the offer proves acceptable, otherwise the bids will be filed and the books kept for four weeks for competition of offers which may arrive during this period, after which time they will be sent out without reserve to the highest bidder.

All books on this list are warranted to be perfect, complete, and in good condition, and they are in their original cloth binding, if not otherwise specified. They will be forwarded at the expense of the purchaser. No charge is made for packing, cases, or cartage.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE next volume of the Bankside Shakespeare, "Othello," is to be edited by Dr. Thomas R. Price, Professor of English in Columbia College. Dr. Price will claim, in his introduction, that he has discovered an exact system of Shakespearian prosody, led up to by experimentation by Shakespeare in the earlier plays, and finally perfected in the "Othello."

"THE PILLARS OF SOCIETY and Other Plays," by Henrik Ibsen, edited by Havelock Ellis, will be the September volume in the Camelot Series; "Poems by Southey," edited by Sidney R. Thompson in the Canterbury Poets; "Life of Bunyan," by Canon Venables in the Great Writers. Mr. Thomas Whittaker is the American publisher of these series.

JORDAN, MARSH & Co., the Boston dry-goods house, have just ready "Editha's Burglar," by Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett. It is illustrated by Henry Sandham, and handsomely bound in cloth with a gold design on the cover. A portrait of little Elsie Leslie adorns the front page. They are also just publishing "Jack in the Bush," by Robert Grant, a sequel or companion story to "Jack Hall," illustrated by Frank T. Merrill. It is a good camping-out story of boys who spend their vacation in the woods and have a good time. They have also in press "House-keeping and Home-making," by Mrs. Sallie Joy White.

THE first etching bearing the stamp of the Society of American Etchers is "The Fisherman's Courtship," by Hamilton Hamilton. In a criticism of American etching, Mrs. Runtz-Rees says of this plate: "The artist has treated an idyllic theme in an ideal manner. The old, old story, with its subtle charm, is transacted in the witching evening hour by the murmuring waves. The figures of the pair are charming; the sailor, leaning against the windlass, waits in evident expectation of a happy conclusion, while the maiden, shyly coy, stands with downcast eyes as if unwilling to lessen her empire by giving voice to the consent, which has evidently been already given in thought. As an etching 'The Fisherman's Courtship' is an example of Mr. Hamilton's best work; it is not only admirably conceived, but excellently carried out in detail; the treatment of the sky is in itself evidence of the highest artistic feeling." Orders may be addressed to J. D. Waring, 19 E. 16th St., publisher of the Society of American Etchers.

HENRY SELL, 186 Fleet St., London, has in preparation "Sell's Dictionary of the World's Press and Advertiser's Reference-Book" for 1889.

CHATTO & WINDUS publish a tastefully illustrated little book, "Uncle Sam at Home," by Harold Brydges, which is said to be an appreciative estimate of American character and institutions.

MARPON & FLAMMARION, Paris, will publish in November a volume of personal reminiscences by Alphonse Daudet, under the title "Souvenirs d'un Homme de Lettres." It will contain numerous illustrations.

L. J. VEEN, Amsterdam (Holland), has just published the first part of a "Dictionary of National Biography," by J. G. Frederiks and F. Jos. van den Branden, assisted by a number of prominent men of letters in the Netherlands. The work will be completed in 15 parts.

W. DRYSDALE & Co., Montreal, Canada, have just ready a new Canadian work entitled "The Young Seigneur, or, nation making," by Wilfrid Chateaucclair. The chief aim of this book, the author says, is to map out a future for the Canadian nation, which has been hitherto drifting without any plan. A lesser purpose of it is to make some of the atmosphere of French Canada understood by those who speak English. The writer is an old-fashioned Tory and an old-fashioned Liberal.

THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE LIST ANNUAL

For 1888 (Sixteenth Year).

Large 8vo, about 3000 pages. With Duplex Index.

The Trade-List Annual for 1888 will contain :

1. The latest CATALOGUES OF AMERICAN PUBLISHERS, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names.
2. A complete list by author, title, and subject of all books recorded in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY from July, 1887, to June, 1888.
3. The "EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE" for 1888, which is used by the entire trade and educational interests as the most representative reference-list of School-books.

The above Lists, all bound in one volume, present in their combination so convenient and time-saving a working-tool as to make it indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase or sale of books.

The patent "DUPLEX INDEX" having given such general satisfaction, we have decided to apply it in the future to all copies of the "Annual." Volumes supplied with the "DUPLEX INDEX" have the alphabet printed on the concave surface as well as on the margin of the page, which enables instantaneous reference, whether the book is open or shut.

The price of the book before publication will be ONE DOLLAR AND A HALF net, including the index. Delayed or unpaid subscriptions are not entitled to the subscription price ($1.50), but will be charged at $2.00.

 Unless special shipping directions are received, copies ready for delivery will be despatched by express unpaid. Parties so desiring can have their copies sent by mail, or by prepaid book-rate express for 80 cents per copy extra.

PARIS EXHIBITION, 1889

MR. EM. TERQUEM, late representative of the American Publishers in the Paris Exposition, 1878, begs to inform the trade that it is his intention to represent the American Publishers at the coming Paris Universal Exposition, on the same principles as at the last one. He has already received some applications from publishers, and he hopes to obtain the same success in 1889 that he did in 1878.

MR. EM. TERQUEM will be in New York in September next, and will remain for some time in the U. S. especially for that purpose.

The very convenient offices in the centre of the American quarter Mr. Em. Terquem has now in Paris, which will be enlarged during 1889, will enable publishers who desire to visit Paris next year to find offices for their private business use.

TO THE TRADE.

We desire to call the special attention of the Trade to our increased facilities for conducting the book-jobbing business at our new and commodious place of business,

Nos. 740 and 742 Broadway.

We are confident there is no more varied or general stock of

Miscellaneous and School Books,

nor one more readily accessible for easy examination to be found in New York; that nowhere else will customers receive more prompt or careful attention or buy on better terms than we are able to offer on our goods.

We hope for a continuance of the liberal patronage which we received in Bond Street, and trust that the greater convenience of our new location, together with our added facilities for serving our customers with efficiency, promptness, and at the lowest prices, will enable us to merit a still greater share of business.
